GET NOTICES TO REDUCE HAZZARD

Owners of Commercial Block Are Given Five Days by State Fire
Marshal to Clean up.

W. FRAME MUST RAZE SHACK

Walter Easley, Fire Chief, Who Served Them, Will Make Recommendations to Improve Department.

Acting on instructions from William E. Longley, state fire marshal, Walter Easley, the newly appointed chief of the city fire department, who,
by virtue of his office, is an assistant to the state fire marshal according to a law passed by the last legislature creating the state office, served notice on the three owners of the Commercial block that they should clean up the second floor of the block and William Frame that he should raze an old frame shack in First street on the alley between Main and Morgan streets. In performing his regular duties as fire chief, Mr. Easley has taken an inventory of the equipment of the fire department and will report to the city council. He will make a number of recommendations looking to the betterment of the department.

Lon Link owns one room, William Helm two and Mrs. T. J. Geraghty one in the Commercial block. In the notices prepared by the fire marshal for building be renovated so as to remove as many dangers of fire as possible. It is pointed that there are a number of waste receptacles and other things where fire might easily originate.

The notices given the owners provide that the order shall be complied with in five days. The same number of days of grace are also given William Frame to remove the old fire trip in First street.

The state fire marshal law provides that if property owners do not act on the orders of the state fire marshal within thirty days, or any specific number of days set out in the order,
the owner is liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars or more than fifty dollars for each day after the time limit has expired until the improvement is made.

Fire Chief Easley says that it is imperative that he serve the notices because failure to do so would make him liable to a fine. The same duty developed on the township trustees who are assistant fire marshals under the law in their respective townships just as the fire chiefs are. They are subject to a fine if they do not report every fire in their bailiwick.

Fire Chief Easley says that if people will pay more attention to fire hazards and keep them down as much as they possibly can, there is always a chance for the insurance rates to be lowered. Whenever the underwriters are certain, he declares, that the people are doing the best they can and the fire company is able to cope with any fire that might break out, they will reduce the rates.

The fire chief says that he found much worthless stock on hands at the fire headquarters and that he will recommend to the city council that he be allowed to hold a public sale and dispose of useless material.

He will recommend further that the small fire engine, which is out of repair, be moved to the shed east of the fire headquarters and that the old hose wagon be fixed up for an emergency wagon and placed where the small engine now sits. He will also advise that the east room be used for hose drying.

Chief Easley says that the small engine might as well be sold, but he

COUNTY MADE DEFENDANT

In Suit Over Board Bill Against Road
Contractors.

Charles E. Dalton has filed suit against Boucher and McCord, road contractors and the board of commissioners, composed of T. J. Hume, Edwin Aiken and William T. Moore, on a claim demanding $105. Dalton alleges that Boucher and McCord are indebted to him in the sum of $77.90 for board and labor while they were building the Murray-Moore road. He states that he filed the claim with the commissioners and that they held out $100 from the amount due Boucher and McCord but refuse to give it to him. He asks twenty-five dollars attorney fees in addition to the sum alleged to be due from the road contractors.

WRITES IN HOPE OF GAINING LOVE

Edwin Ostin, Supposedly of This County, Offers to Share Home
Some Connersville Girl

NO CHANCE FOR "BOOZERS"

To any young lady of pleasing looks, and who is not a confirmed
"booze-fighter," the address of Mr.
Edwin Ostin, Rushville, General Delivery, may be a signpost pointing out the way to happiness, says the Connersville News. An interesting letter reached the News today from Mr. Ostin. It explains that he is 22 years of age, good looking, and strictly sober. He desires to cultivate the acquaintance of some nice young lady who desires to settle down in life. Someone about his own age, or perhaps a little younger would, by the tone of his letter, have a kind of prima facie lead in the running. The writer says in so many words that boozers need not write to him. Those who are not hard drinkers, and who approximate the other simple and easy requirements mentioned by Mr. Ostin are invited to open correspondence with him at the address already given. Those who write are requested to send their photographs.

MARTIN HEWITT EXPIRED

Death Came After Long Illness to Aged Man.

The funeral services of Martin Hewitt, who died yesterday at his home in Blue Ridge, will be held Friday morning at nine o'clock in the
M. E. church in Moscow, the Rev. M.
Tilson officiating, and burial will take place in the Moscow cemetery. Mr.
Hewitt was 80 years old and was well known. He had suffered for over a year from paralysis. He is survived by the following children:
Alonzo Hewitt, T. J. Hewitt, Alvin Hewitt, Calvin Hewitt, Marion Hewitt, Mrs. Rebecca Gordon, Mrs. Maggie Mann and Miss Minnie Hewitt.

COURT "DARK."

There was no court today due to the fact that Judge Megee and most of the Democratic attorneys were in attendance at the Democratic meeting in Indianapolis. There was nothing set for trial and Judge Megee took advantage of the opportunity and spent the day in Indianapolis.

William Martin is seriously ill at his home in West First street.

CAN DO SAME ON FARM AS IN CITY

Mrs. Elizabeth Stanley of Liberty
Emphasized This in Keeping Young Folks at Home

SHE SPEAKS AT INSTITUTE

Prof. Ogg Says Farmers who "Retire" Are Damaging Rural Life Prospects—Other Institutes

The farmers' institute was held at Mays today and Friday and institute will be in progress at Arlington. A corn show was held in connection with the institute at both places.

Maurice Douglas of Flatrock and Mrs. C. N. Lindsey of Salem were the special lecturers today and they will also appear at Arlington tomorrow.
The Mays program began this morning at 9:30 o'clock, when an opening selection was played by the Center township orchestra. At the morning hour Mr. Douglas spoke on "Alfalfa and Other Legum Crops," and Mrs.
Lindsey's subject was "Care and Management of the House."

This afternoon Mr. Douglas spoke on the topic "More Corn to the Acre," and Mrs. Lindsey, "How to Improve the Social Status of the Community."
This evening at seven o'clock the lecture by Mr. Douglas will be on the subject, "Social Evenings on the Farm," and Mrs. Lindsey, "Proper Relations Between House Keeping
and Home Making."

Premiums will be awarded for the best ten ears of yellow corn, the best ten ears of white corn and sweepstakes prizes, and also for the best plate of apples, the best pound of butter, the best loaf of yeast bread and best loaf of salt-rising bread.
The poultry show and contest will also be held.

An extensive list of prizes is to be awarded at the institute of Walker and Posey townships at the Sampson hall in Arlington tomorrow. Mr.
Douglas will speak on "More Corn to the Acre" in the morning, "Soil Improvement and Manures" in the afternoon, and "Silo and Silage" in the evening. Mrs. Lindsey's afternoon subject will be the same as that announced for this evening's program at Mays. "Domestic Science in the Rural Schools" will be the subject of her discussion in the evening.

Albert Mays was elected township chairman at the institute held at the Orange school house Tuesday. Ray Stevens is the new treasurer and Russell Young, secretary. Mrs.
John Dawson and Mrs. F. S. McKee compose the program committee.
Prof. R. J. Ogg of Greencastle and
Mrs. Elizabeth Stanley of Liberty
each gave two highly instructive addresses on farm topics. The special music was furnished by the Orange high school orchestra and Miss Goldie DeArmond.

R. H. Baker was elected chairman,
Fred Knotts, vice-chairman and Berle Hinchman, secretary-treasurer
at the institute at the Falmouth Odd Fellows hall this week. The lecturers were Prof. Ogg and Mrs. Stanley.

Since Mrs. Stanley has succeeded in keeping her own family on the farm, her advice on this particular subject was considered especially practical. The plan she used was to give the young folks an interest in the live stock and teach them they could dress and act the same as their much-admired city cousins, whose dresses did not "sag in the back."

In discussing "Types of Soil and Their Treatment," Prof. Ogg said the heavy loam or clay soil of this region presented the hardest problems, but that it would give the best results under proper treatment. He advised

INDIVIDUAL CAN SAVE THE WORLD

Rev. C. M. Yocum Emphasizes Priceless Value of Personal Work in Winning Souls.

CONSISTENT LIFE ELOQUENT

Rev. A. W. Jamieson Will Preach at Prayer Week Services at Christian Church Tonight.

If only one man in the world knew the Gospel message, and he gave it to one person one day these two in turn each gave it to one person the next day and so, the message would have been heard by every man, woman and child in the United States in a month, and in four days and a half after that, every person in the world would be reached by the same scheme.

This was the startling assertion of the Rev. C. M. Yocum in the third of the series of the week of prayer union service at the St. Paul M. E. church last evening, when he spoke on the subject "Personal Persuasion." It was made during the course of his convincing argument in favor of personal work above all other methods.

Tonight's meeting will be at the Main Street Christian church at seven-thirty and the speaker will be the Rev. A. W. Jamieson, pastor of the United Presbyterian church. His subject will be, "Confessing Christ."

"Monday evening," said the Rev.
Mr. Yocum, the subject discussed was "The Church's Responsibility to the Unconverted." Tuesday night we were persuaded that this responsibility can be met only through prayer and tonight we want to be more specific in placing the responsibility of the church.

"The church's responsibility embraces society, the state and the nation, but in the last analysis its fundamentals and important responsibility is to the individual. And as the church is a body of individuals, the church's duty after all is an individual duty. The individual's responsibility to the individual is therefore the supreme obligation. When we stand before God on the Judgment day, He will not ask, 'What did your church do,' but 'What did you do?'"

"The church's message makes it imperative for the individual to go forth and do the work. Without Christ, the nation, society and the individual are lost, not alone for eternity, but lost to the better, nobler things here. I am one who believes that there is something more infinite than the salvation of a soul, that is the salvation of a life that carries with it the salvation of a soul into eternity.

"Christ alone can save. This is the teaching of God's word and the experience of man. Therefore, since our brothers are without hope without Christ, we must be about our father's business. If there is an individual here in Rushville who is groping about in darkness, shall we not realize that we shall go out and lead him forth."

The Rev. Mr. Yocum recalled many incidents of nation-wide prominence where heroes have saved people from physical danger. He recounted the story of Paul Revere, the hero of the mine disaster in West Virginia and the hero of Canamaugh valley disaster who gave his life to warn the people of Johnstown, Pa., that the dam had broken.

"If men will do these things to save lives," he commented, "why will they not hasten to save men from losing their souls for all eternity? We count a hero the man who saves a

KNOX'S WIFE DISAPPEARS

Shop Girl With Whom he Eloped 4
Years Ago Gone.

(By United Press.)
Philadelphia, Jan. 8.—The shop girl, with whom the son of Former Secretary of State Philander C.
Knox eloped four years ago, has disappeared from here, it became known today. Thethathus- a e f e r h husband and his mother sailed for Bermuda yesterday has given weight to the stories that trouble exists between the two. Mr. Knox, Jr., says that talk of trouble is premature.

FINLY GRAY MAY HAVE OPPOSITION

Rumored That Taggart Organization
May Take Hand in Sixth District Politics.

(By United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind. Jan. 8.—It is rumored here that the regular Democratic organization in Indiana may itself step into the contest in the sixth Congressional District and un-horse Finly Gray of Connersville, present representative from that district. A man supposed to represent the sentiments of Thomas Taggart gave out an interview, not allowing the use of his name, in which he said that it is the sense of the organization Democrats that some one else ought to succeed Gray. It is reported also that arrangements looking to this end have been made, although the name of the man to succeed Gray has not been given out.

DISCORDANT NOTE AT STATE MEETING

Rival Booms For All State Offices and Congressional Places Injected
Into Democratic Gathering.

STATE CONVENTION MARCH 19

(By United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—Rival booms for every office in the coming state and congressional elections were the only discordant notes in the otherwise harmonious and enthusiastic meeting of the new Democratic state central committee here today.
Bernard Korbly of Indianapolis was re-elected state chairman.

The state convention will be held in Indianapolis March 19, the committee voted. W. A. Kunkel of Bluffton was elected vice-chairman and Hugh Dougherty of Indianapolis treasurer.
Resolutions praising the work of Woodrow Wilson, Tom Taggart, Governor Ralston and the Indiana congressional delegation, including Vice-president Marshall, were passed.
The secretary is to be appointed by the chairman. Bert New will not be re-appointed because his work as legal advisor to the Governor takes all his time.

SPECIALS AT ARLINGTON.

The Rushville Specials will journey to Arlington tonight to meet the basket ball team of that place. The Specials are playing at a fast clip and expect to give Arlington a close game. All of the regulars are expected to report at the traction station not later than 7:05 p. m. to take the 7:17 car.

The women of the First Baptist church will hold an exchange in the Morris hardware store Saturday.

BACK TO SCENE OF DEPORTATION

President of Western Federation of Miners is Back on the Job at Hancock, Mich.

"COME TO FINISH HIS WORK"

Labor Leader Escorted to Hotel by 50 Deputy Sheriffs Amidst Cheering Thousands.

(By United Press.)
Hancock, Mich., Jan. 8.—Charles
A. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, this afternoon returned to the scene of his deportation two weeks ago.

"I have come to finish my work as I said I would do," declared Moyer.
"I do not anticipate any trouble with our enemies. The secretary of our union would have me make an investigation and the grand jury is already investigating the first assault on me."

The secretary of the union accompanied Moyer here. The two labor leaders slipped out of Chicago last night two days after Moyer left the hospital.

Moyer was on the verge of a collapse when he arrived here, due to his lengthy rail journey. A squad of fifty deputy sheriffs met him at the station when he arrived, placed him in an automobile and escorted him to his apartments in the hotel.

A large throng of strikers gathered as the crowd moved toward the hotel and gave the strike leader a remarkable ovation. From the station to the hotel, cheering thousands lined the streets. The scene today was in striking contrast to that when Moyer was deported. Members of the Citizens Alliance, on whom was placed the blame for the deportation of Moyer, mingled with the crowd today.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

(By United Press.)
New York, Jan. 8.—The regular semi-annual dividend on common stock and a two per cent. dividend on preferred stock was declared by the directors of the Baltimore &

Helping Women With Their Housework

Do you know that the number of articles made for the purpose of helping women in their house work numbers hundreds of thousands?

Do you know that the stores in this town carry the best of these devices and machines?

Do you know that the advertising in this newspaper often carries the news of these very things?

Now what news could be more important to a woman than that which tells her of a way in which she can lighten her burdens?

This is only one example of the hundreds of instances of helpfulness offered by the advertising.

ROW OVER WILL OF MARTHA WASHINGTON

Virginians Threaten to Put the Law On Morgan.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The dispute over the will of Martha Washington threatens to find its way into the courts. One side is represented by J. P. Morgan, who has possession of the document, and on the other side are leading citizens of Virginia, headed by Representative Charles A. Carlin of that state.

Angered by the refusal of Mr. Morgan to give up the will, which he inherited as a part of the estate of his father, the late J. P. Morgan, the state of Virginia, through certain prominent citizens of the state, intends to go to law to recover the will, according to an announcement made by Representative Carlin.

"We will try to indict Mr. Morgan for theft if he persists in keeping this historic document, now that he knows that it was stolen," declared Mr. Carlin. "Under the statute, a man who keeps in his possession stolen property is a participant in the crime."

Thieves Beat Aged Grocer.

New Albany, Ind., Jan. 8.—Henry Hankey, aged eighty-five, proprietor of a little general store on the Corydon pike, west of the city, for the last sixty years, was found bound and gagged on the floor. He had been beaten about the head and was unconscious. His condition is serious and he may not recover.

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 8.—Republicans, Progressives, and Democrats, the combination that supported him in the campaign are conducting the city government today under the Citizen's administration of Mayor Martin T. Kreuger who led the ticket which swept completely out of power the Democratic administration of Mayor F. C. Miller. Kreuger served as mayor for twelve years back in the nineties.

TO STOP "SNICKERS" WITH ARMY BULLETS

The Way This Officer Would
Treat Alsations.

Strassburg, Jan. 8.—At the court
martial which is trying Colonel Von Reuter, District Commissioner Mueller of Zabern charged that the military authorities were endeavoring to obscure the proceedings at the trial in
an effort to clear the accused officers.
Herr Mueller protested against the
records of the preliminary hearings
and asserted that statements were ascribed to him which he had never made. Colonel Von Reuter's counsel sharply repudiated this charge, declaring it was an absolute falsehood. Herr Grossmann, another civilian official of Zabern, together with Herr Mueller,
testified that the colonel said it would be a good thing if blood should flow in
the streets of the Alsatian town.
Herr Mueller said that when he reminded Colonel Von Reuter that the citizens had done no harm and had merely watched the soldiers go by, the
officer replied:
"I am determined to put an end to this at any cost. I will not permit the people to laugh in this manner. They will have to quit laughing, or we will shoot."

TOOK REFUSAL TO HEART

New York Young Man Kills His Sweet-
heart and Himself.
New York, Jan. 8.—John Oscar
Peterson-Block, a youth of nineteen,
killed his sweetheart, Rose Smith, of
the same age, and ended his own life
in the Hotel Belmont.
The motive for the murder and suicide was suggested by the girl's father,
who told the police that he had objected to young Peterson-Block's attentions to his daughter because the boy had no prospects. Mr. Smith believed that Peterson-Block took Rose
to the hotel for the purpose of inducing her to marry without the consent
of her parents, and that when she refused he shot her and then himself.

Found Guilty of Operating Fake
Matrimonial Bureau But Let go
Pending Good Behavior.

USED MAILS TO EXTORT MONEY

Daughter Was Drawing Card For Prospective Suitors—Her Case
to Come up Soon.

Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—Martin W. and Emma Farris of Princeton, Ind., indicted by the federal grand jury, with their daughter, Louise Farris, or using the mails in operating a "fake" matrimonial bureau and detained in jail
since their arraignment shortly before Christmas, appeared in federal court
and changed their plea of not guilty to
guilty. Judge Anderson suspended
judgment in the case of Martin Farris
and suspended judgment, during good behavior, in the case of Mrs. Farris.
Another daughter, Ora Mabel, who testified against them before the grand jury, came to Indianapolis and appeared in court, asking the judge to be lenient with them. Upon being questioned by the judge, she indicated that her mother was the real leader in the fraud, saying that she wrote most of
of the letters and received most of the answers containing presents.
When the Farris were arraigned originally Mr. and Mrs. Farris entered
a plea of not guilty, but later pleaded guilty. Then upon hearing the mass
of evidence introduced by the district
attorney, they entered a vigorous denial and were permitted to change
their plea to not guilty. They were remanded to jail in lieu of bond and had been there since.
Louise Farris, who was the central
scheme, is at present under the care of the Rev. A. E. Hurlstone of this city. She pleaded guilty and sentence
was suspended pending the outcome of the case against her parents. It is not known what disposition will be made
of her case. Louise played the part of a young heiress in the matrimonial scheme. Her pictures and letters led to her engagement to more than fifty
men at one time, so the authorities
asserted. Five suitors once appeared at Princeton, each to claim her as his own.

COAL PASSER DECAPITATED

Distressing Accident at the Anderson
City Light Plant.
Anderson, Ind., Jan. 8.—William H.
Barnes, aged fifty-two, employed at
the city light plant, was decapitated
and his body was crushed when he fell
into the shaft between the coal bins
and the hopper over the stokers in the furnace room. The hopper was clogged by the man's body, and the large steel buckets that lift coal had stopped before the engineer discovered the cause. The head was found in one bucket in the furnace room, one
foot was in another bucket, and a hand
also was severed. Men worked half an hour extricating the body.
Barnes was shoveling coal when he
met his death, and no one witnessed
the accident.

High Hopes For Future.

In his message read to the council at its maiden meeting, Mayor C. L. Behout indicates that he has a thorough grasp of the situation in the city just now and offers some splendid suggestions for remedying many of the ailments that have sprung up.

He pointed out that this administration is beginning its duties with a depleted treasury, even though there is an apparent balance of $5,271 available for present uses. Bills outstanding turned over by the outgoing council reduce this "balance" to $503.41. In addition to all this, he showed, the city has a bonded indebtedness of $45,900, including, $32,000 water and light plant bonds and $13,900 in demand notes. A majority of the notes and many of bonds were issued during the last year, the mayor declared.

This reveals quite plainly the inefficient manner in which the outgoing city administration attended to Rushville's affairs and further shows how hampered the present council is at the very outset. The mayor hoped, he said, to save some money by recommending a bond issue to take up the outstanding demand notes and anticipate them, and in addition, the money can be obtained at a much cheaper rate than that which is now being paid.

All of the mayor's recommendations in his message are very timely and we wish for the people of Rushville the happy solution of all the grave problems that confront the city to the end that this may be a well regulated city. The council and the mayor have high hopes of success, and all having one aim in view and being in perfect accord, they should get results.

The rules which have become effective at the water and light plant indicate that order and system is to come out of confusion. Definite lines of work are to be laid down for each employe and each one shall know to whom he is accountable. "Failure to operate properly boilers, engines, pumps, or other machinery, whether from incompetency, neglect, carelessness or disloyalty to the best interests of the plant shall be deemed valid cause for dismissal," says the rules. "Honest, sobriety and loyalty are of prime importance and will be demanded of all employes." This has the proper ring, and with the kind of management that is to be injected into the general order of things at the plant good results should be wrought.

as most important perfect drainage. This removes surplus water and allows a deeper penetration of the air, which acts as a sort of ventilating system to the soil. He pointed out that water and air can not occupy the same space, and when the water is removed, the air enters the soil, producing a medium for the growth of bacteria which are so important in making plant food in the soil available.

"Plow deeply," he exhorted, "at least to a depth of eight inches. This lowers the seed bed and gives the root systems a great range and a larger supply of food. Don't plow when the ground is wet, plowing is supposed to break up the soil, but plowing heavy loam or clay when it is wet tends to produce the very opposite effect. The soil is huddled and the plant food is rendered unavailable.

"Plow under much legumes and manure. This furnishes the humus to the soil. It also supplies the soil with the beneficial bacteria, airs the soil, makes it more friable and puts it in better condition generally for cultivation. Lime the soil if testing with litmus paper shows acidity. Red clover will not produce a rank growth on an acid soil. Use fertilizer rich in phosphorus as the soil is liable to be rich enough in potash and the nitrogen content may be increased by legumes."

In the afternoon Prof. Ogg spoke of many things which tend to retard the revival of rural life and of the conditions which must be brought about to raise rural life to the standard which it deserves.

"The farmers present prosperity is working against this," he declared. "The rich farmer retires, moving to town to become a 'dead beat' and leaving the farm to some tenant who mines instead of farms the land and who does very little to make life in the neighborhood better. The signs that country life are in the midst of a dawn for better things are the stir of new life, organizations of farmers' and club and farmers' co-operative unions and aroused interest in literary and social life. Science is making rural life more interesting and the day of the ideal county life is approaching."

In an address on "An Investment Worth While" Mrs. Stanley said too many people, like the farmer, think an investment worth while is one which will enable him to raise more hogs. An investment worth while, rather, according to Mrs. Stanley, is one which will add morality, intelligence and happiness to our lives.

"A Princess of Bagdad," the spectacular eight reel production will be shown again tonight at the Portola. The picture pleased large audiences last night. Helen Gardner is seen in the leading role. The story is easily followed and is very dramatic. The picture is staged to perfection and the costumes are quite elaborate. Besides the dramatic interest, the picture contains a good deal of comedy. The shows start at 6:30 and 8:30 o'clock.

The Princess will show a two-reel feature entitled "In Love and War." It tells an interesting story and is said to be full of dramatic situations. The picture is staged amid excellent settings. The other is an Edison comedy "A Woodlawn Paradise." Mary Fuller is featured in this production. Charles Carlton will sing tonight "Beans, Beans, Beans!" A two reel feature showing Maurice Costello "The War makers" will be shown tomorrow night.

The Gem will show a three reel feature "The Restless Spirit" for tonight. It is a Universal production and features Warren Kerrigan. This is the first picture Kerrigan played in for this company. The production is said to be very elaborate containing a number of picturesque settings. Eju dupnor-fLuetitotetere

The patrons of English's Opera House, Indianapolis, are to have an opportunity to see the play which produced such a profound sensation in New York last year, and which is now duplicating that success in Chicago. "The Poor Little Rich Girl," which will visit Indianapolis during the entire week of January 12th, playing matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. This story deals with the life of a little girl who was surrounded by all the luxuries which money could buy; attendants to do her slightest bidding; toys galore; but one thing was lacking—parental love. Her father was very busy piling up fortunes; her mother was engaged in a struggle for social supremacy, and their poor little daughter was left to hired attendants. Naturally she heard much gossip. The servants said her father was made of money, her mother had a social bee in her bonnet, the butler had big ears, the governess was a snake in the grass, the nurse two-faced, but she didn't quite understand what they meant. One evening her nurse desired an evening off, so she gave her little charge a powerful sleeping potion. The child slept, and dreamed in her dreams that everyone appeared to her in fantastic form. Her father's clothes were made of bills; her mother appeared before her with a bonnet on her head on top of which was a buzzing bee; the butler had marvelous ears, much too large; her governess moved about and looked like a snake, and her nurse was a monstrosity with two faces. The doctor who is called to attend her, leads her away from these fearful fancies and restores her to her normal mind.

It is a beautiful story, splendidly acted by a strong cast and one that no one will want to miss.

EXPECT RESULTS FROM CHURCH WORK

Evangelistic Movement of Far-reaching Importance Started by Indianapolis Churches.

ADVERTISING IN PAPERS

(By United Press.) Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—An evangelistic movement of far-reaching importance is being undertaken by the federated Protestant churches of Indianapolis. Its keynote is organized, steady effort. Modern methods—among them the newspaper advertisement—are to be used in carrying the Church to the people. Weekly the Church Federation inserts prominently a simply worded appeal. "Making Happiness—A man's Job" was the heading of the last one.

"The making of a Happy New Year for all our people—here is a real man's job," says the advertisement. "Love thy neighbor as thyself"—such is the Divine command.

"Every man and woman is your neighbor. The banker and the clerk are neighbors. The corporation president and the laborer are neighbors. The mistress and the maid are neighbors. Love them as you love yourself. There's the job. It is almost a superhuman task. But it may be accomplished, for God does not require the impossible. Man-made laws alone will not bring happiness. But the observance of God's laws will."

TAKES CHILDREN TO HOME

James Miller, county probation officer, left this morning for Indianapolis, taking with him the seven children of Charles Wevie, living south of the city, who will be placed in the orphan's home there. The children were made wards of the juvenile court some time ago and their father only recently consented to sending them to the orphan's home. Their ages range from two to twelve years.

CHAPTER XV. Gertrudis Garavel.

LIKE most Latin-American cities, Panama prides herself upon her government theater. Although it remains dark most of the year, its brief period of opera is celebrated by a notable outpouring of Americans and Panamanians. It was an exceedingly well dressed audience, for although the pit was plentifully sprinkled with men in white, the two lower galleries were in solid full dress. In the center box of the first tier, ornately hung with flags and a coat of arms, Anthony beheld a giant black man of majestic appearance, flanked by a half dozen aids in uniform.

"That is President Galleo," Edith told him.

As the curtain fell on the first act Kirk rose with the others and, accompanied by Mrs. Cortlandt, made his way down the long passageway and out into a brightly lighted, highly decorated foyer, filling now with voluble people. It was a splendid room, but he had no eyes for it. His gaze was fixed upon the welcome open air promenade outside, and his fingers fumbled with his cigarette case.

"Oh, wait, please," he heard Edith say. "I want you to meet some one."

There, not a yard away, was the girl of his dreams demurely bowing to Edith Cortlandt, her hand upon the arm of a swarthy man, whom Kirk knew at once as her father. He felt the blood rush blindingly to his head, felt it drumming at his ears, knew that he must be staring like a man bereft. Mrs. Cortlandt was speaking, and he caught the name "Garavel" like a bugle call.

She was the same dainty, desirous maid he had met in the forest, but now splendidly radiant and perfect beyond his imagining. She was no longer the simple wood sprite, but a tiny princess in filmy white molded by some master craftsman. As on that earlier meeting, she was thrilling with some subtle mirth which flickered on her lips or danced in the depths of her great, dark eyes.

How he ever got through that wild introductory moment without making a show of himself Anthony never knew. The general confusion perhaps helped to hide his emotion, for around them eddied a constant human tide, through which at last came Mr. Cortlandt and the other members of his party. Then by some glorious miracle Kirk found himself moving toward the open air at her side, with Mrs. Cortlandt and the banker in advance of them.

At the tremendous intensity of his tone she flashed him a startled glance. "Chiquita is not my name," she said, reprovingly.

"Yes, it is; it must be. I can't think of you by any other. Hasn't it been whispering at my ears ever since you said it? It has nearly driven me mad. Why didn't you come back as you promised?"

"It was Stephanie—she is such a ferocious person! I was brought to the city that day—but no, señor. I did not promise. I said only 'perhaps.'"

"Have you done your penance?"

"It was finished yesterday. This is the first time I have been out. Oh, it is delightful. The music—the people!"

"And I can come to see you now?"

"Very well do you know that you cannot. Have you not learned our customs? Do not be foolish, or I shall be forced to walk with my father."

"Don't do that. Can't you see we must make haste while the curtain is down?"

"I do not see. I am strolling in search of the cool air." She bowed and smiled at some passing friends. She seemed very careless, very flippant. She was not at all the impetuous, mischievous Chiquita he had met in the woods.

"See here!" he said, soberly. "We can't go on this way. Now that I've met your father, I'm going to explain my intentions to him, and ask his permission to call on you."

"My father is a stern man. In his home he is entirely a Spaniard, and if he learned how we met, for instance—even under the electric light he saw her flush—he would create a terrible scene."

"Trust me! I shan't tell him."

"There are so many reasons why it is useless."

"Name one."

"One!" She shrugged lightly. "In the first place I care nothing for you. Is not that enough?"

"No, indeed. You'll get over that."

"Let us imagine, then, the contrary. You Americans are entirely different from our people. You are cold, deliberate, wicked—your social customs are not like ours. You do not at all understand us. How then could you be interested to meet a Spanish family?"

"Why, you're half American."

"Oh, yes, although it is to be regretted. Why, there is no other nice girl in all Panama who would have talked with you as I did in the forest that day."

"But what has all this to do with my coming to see you?"

"It is difficult to explain, since you will not understand. When a young man is accepted into a Spanish house, many things are taken for granted. Besides that, we do not know each other, you and I. Also, if you should come to see me it would cause gossip, misunderstanding among my friends."

"I'll declare myself in advance," he promised warmly.

"No, no, no! We Spanish-Americans do not care for strangers. We have our own people and we are satisfied. It is much better that old people who are of more experience should discuss these questions."

"But don't you want to have a voice in your own affairs?" he eagerly urged.

She answered frankly: "I do rebel sometimes. I protest, but it is only the American blood in me."

"If you'd learn to know me a little bit, maybe you'd enjoy having me around the house."

"But I cannot know you, any more than you can know me," she cried, with a little gesture of despair at his dullness. "Don't you see—before we could get acquainted nicely people would be talking."

"Let's try. You're living at the country place again, aren't you? Suppose I should get lost some day—tomorrow, for instance?"

"No, no! Listen. It is the warning bell, and we must return."

The crowd was filing into the theater now. They fell in behind Senor Garavel and Mrs. Cortlandt.

"I'm going hunting again tomorrow," prophesied Kirk, "and I'm almost certain to lose my way—about 3 o'clock. Suppose we have another stroll after the next act?"

"I shall be with my father. Never before have I enjoyed so much liberty." She sighed gratefully.

"Oh, I detest your blarney, strait-laced Spanish customs," he cried hotly. "What do they amount to, anyhow? I love you. I do, I do!"

She laughed and darted to her father's side.

"Don't you think Miss Garavel is a pretty girl?" Mrs. Cortlandt questioned, as they strolled toward their box.

"You got along together capitally. Most of the senoritas are impossible."

"By the way, what is her name?"

"Gertrudis. Rather pleasing, I think."

Kirk thought so too. When, after an age, the curtain fell for a second time he escaped from his companions, mumbling some excuse or other, and made haste to find her again. But as he approached he felt a sudden pang of jealous rage.

Ramon Alfarez was beside her, and the two were chatting with an appearance of intimacy that made him furious. Close at hand stood Garavel, deep in conversation with Colonel Jolson.

"Ah, Ramon, I wish you to meet Mr. Anthony," said Gertrudis. "So! You have met before?"

"In Colon," Kirk explained, while Alfarez scorched him with his eyes. "Mr. Alfarez was very hospitable to me."

"Yes," the Spaniard exclaimed. "It is my great regret that Senor Anthony did not remain for longer. Does Senor Anthony discover our climate to be still agreeable?"

"Very. It hasn't grown too warm for me yet."

"We are but approaching our 'ot season.' The speaker's eyes snapped.

A careless Kirk had bated Ramon in a remorseless, indifferent sort of way, feeling that he owed him a good drubbing, which he would be pleased to administer if ever a fitting time arrived. But now, since he saw that the jackanapes had the audacity to love Gertrudis, his feeling became intense. The girl, of course, was fully alive to the situation and, although she evidently enjoyed it, she did her best to stand between the two men.

As for Alfarez, he was quick to feel the sudden fierce hostility he had aroused, and it seemed to make him nervous. Moreover, he conceived that he had scored heavily by his last retort, at which Kirk had only smiled. It therefore seemed best to him to withdraw from the conversation (annoyingly conducted in English), and a few moments later he stalked majestically away. This was just what Kirk wanted, and he quickly suggested the balcony. But Gertrudis was obstinate.

"I must remain with my father," she said.

"May I sit beside you, then? Do you know, I'm going to nestle up to your father and make him like me."

"Again you are speaking of that subject. I have known you but an hour, and you talk of nothing but my father, of me, of coming to call. I have lost all modesty to speak of those things. You force me to embarrass myself."

"You once spoke of a chap your people had picked out. It isn't—Alfarez?"

She let her dark eyes rest upon his a moment, and his senses swam. Then she nodded slowly.

"You do not like him?"

"Just like a nose bleed. The day you and I are married I'm going to send him a wreath of poison ivy."

"It pleases you always to joke."

"No joke about that. You won't give in, will you?"

"There is no question of force nor of surrender, señor. I insist now that we shall speak of other things."

A few moments later he was constrained to rejoin his hostess' party.

"When are you going back to Las Savannas?" he asked as he reluctantly arose.

"Tomorrow."

"The hunting ought to be good"—But she frowned at him in annoyance, and he left her after all without knowing whether he had gained or lost ground. She was not so warm and impulsive as he had supposed. Her girlishness, her simplicity, her little American ways, cloaked a deep reserve and a fine sense of the difference in their positions. The plague of it was that if anything he was more in love with the definite and dazzling Gertrudis Garavel than he had been with the mysteriously alluring Chiquita. And then, too, there was Alfarez!

GOVERNMENT EXPERT WANTS MORE POWER

Alsberg Urges Need of Better Food Laws.

Washington, Jan. 8.—A widespread crusade against "cheats and cheapeners of food products" was begun here with an address by Dr. Carl Alsberg, chief of the bureau of chemistry, department of agriculture, before the woman's department of the National Civic federation.

Dr. Alsberg emphasized the imperative need of strengthening and extending the scope of the pure food and drug act, and urged the women to co-operate with the government officers in an effort to obtain additional legislation, supplementing the present laws.

Pointing out inadequacies of the existing law, Dr. Alsberg said legislation was needed to permit federal inspections of all factories where foods and drinks are manufactured. Such a law, he declared, would within several years do away with epidemics of typhoid and similar dangerous diseases.

Retail Druggists of Rushville Receive a "Tar Heel" Remedy

A Vapor Treatment in the Form of a Salve—Relieves Colds Over Night, Croup in Fifteen Minutes—Druggists Will Give Away 25-Cent Packages Free.

The local druggists will soon receive from North Carolina, the "Tar Heel" state, a remedy for all cold troubles that is entirely different from the usual run of cough syrups and cold tablets.

It is in the form of a salve that is vaporized by the heat of the body when applied to the throat and chest. These antiseptic vapors are inhaled with each breath and combined with the absorption of the preparation through the skin, give almost immediate relief in even the worst cases of croup and relieve head and chest colds over night.

But the fact of most interest to mothers about this new treatment is that it is external and can thus be used with perfect safety on the youngest member of the family.

In cases of insipient pneumonia or severe colds first apply hot wet towels to open the pores of the skin, then rub the salve in well and cover with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the covers loose around the neck so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. The next morning you hardly realize you had a cold as the head is clear, phlegm loosened and soreness gone from the lungs.

In advanced cases of pneumonia the use of this preparation in connection with the regular physician's treatment will greatly aid the patient's chances of recovery. Combined with the absorption of the treatment through the skin, the medicated vapors inhaled loosen the wreckage in the lungs and render the breathing less difficult. This takes part of the work from the overtaxed heart and thus lowers the fever.

These seem strong claims, but the wholesale houses in Indiana who have investigated the results of this treatment in the South, are so convinced of its merit that they have authorized the retail druggists to sell it on 30 days' trial and to refund the price to any user who is not delighted with the results.

In addition the druggists are arranging to give away a limited number of 25-cent packages free to their regular customers. Present the coupon below and if your dealer has not yet received his shipment he will reserve you a package.

MESSAGE READ TO INDIANA BRANCHES

Dr. Anna Shaw Says Suffrage Movements Had Active Year, in Greetings to League.

WILL CONTINUE CAMPAIGN.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—A new year's message from Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman's suffrage Association, is being read at meetings of the fifty-five branches of the Indiana Woman's Franchise league.

"If 1914 is not a record year for suffrage activities all signs will fail," says the message. "First and foremost of the strategic points of attack is Congress, with the Senate Committee on Suffrage having already presented their unanimous report to that body. In the meantime there are the States in which amendments are already pending, and those in which initiative petitions are being circulated. Then come the seven Southern states, where legislative assemblies meet this year. The few remaining states in which immediate action the campaigns are not in progress will be kept busy preparing for the campaigns of 1915."

BEEF IMPORTATION TAKES A BIG SPURT

Under New Tariff Law Number of Pounds Shipped Last Two Months Triples Whole of 1912.

NEARLY HALF FROM CANADA

(Special to the Daily Republican)

Washington, Jan. 8.—The placing of beef on the tariff free list has resulted in a vast increase in the importation of foreign beef and meat products. During October and November, the Department of Agriculture reported today, 18,000,000 pounds of meat and its products were brought from abroad. This is more than triple the amount imported for the whole of 1912.

Nearly half of the imports, or 8,000,000 pounds came from Canada. Argentina supplied 6,000,000 pounds, Australia 3,000,000 and Uruguay 550,000.

During the two months 200,000 head of cattle from Canada and Mexico were imported.

MANY KILLED IN RECENT BATTLE

Federals Demoralized by Fighting Near Torreon, Which Was Bloody Affair—130 Dead.

Constitutionalists Strengthen Their Position by Victories in State of Coahuila.

Juarez, Jan. 8.—One hundred and thirty soldiers, eighty-seven federals and the rest rebels, were killed in a recent battle between the Huerta and Constitutionalist forces eight miles northwest of Torreon, according to advices reaching General Benavides at Juarez.

Two thousand federals, who had sallied out of Torreon, evidently to make a flank movement around the rebel forces besieging the city, were driven back into Torreon.

Of the eighty-seven federals killed, six were officers. The rebel loss is estimated at forty-three dead and sixty wounded. The federal wounded, it is reported, will number close to 150. Twenty-eight prisoners were captured and executed by the rebels, according to the reports received by General Benavides.

The heaviest fighting occurred in the open country that lies between Aviles and Salamanca, a suburb of Torreon. The defeat of the federals, rebels say, demoralized the federal army of 4,000 men in Torreon and evacuation of the city is expected.

Constitutionalist forces under Colonel Eulalio Gutierrez and General Jose Robles have recaptured the important towns of Parras, Cepeda and San Pedro, Coahuila, from federal forces, after three days fighting, according to official advices also received by General Benavides. No details of the losses on either side or the number of men involved in the fighting, have been received in Juarez. Possession of the two points give the rebels a big advantage over the federal army in Torreon, which is more thoroughly than ever now cut off from communication with Saltillo and Monterrey, from which points it had expected to draw its military and food supplies.

Federal army officers from the garrison at Ojinaga are deserting and offering their services to Constitutionalists in Juarez, according to rebel officials in Juarez. Four officers from the Twenty-fifth battalion of federal infantry, it is claimed, have reached Juarez, and offered to join the rebel army. They are being welcomed by the rebels.

STRENGTHENING POSITION

Villa Preparing For Final Assault on Beleaguered Town.

Presidio, Tex., Jan. 8.—If Pancho Villa has arrived in the rebel camp to assume command of the Constitutional forces surrounding Ojinaga, he has made no effort to resume the battle, and is awaiting the rest of his reinforcements.

Meantime, every hour that elapses is giving the federals further time to make their position more impregnable to the assaults of the rebel army, and federal officers appear to be very little in fear of the renewed attack by the rebels. General Francisco Castro, who with General Mercado is jointly in command of the federals, declared: "Let Villa come on with all his forces; we're ready for him."

When Villa reached the rebel camp near Ojinaga, according to the rebels, he immediately began plans for a renewed attack upon the federal stronghold. Not all, if any, of the reinforcements from Chihuahua arrived with him, as he came in an automobile.

In the face of the rebel preparations to renew the attack and federal preparations to repulse it, Ojinaga has begun to assume normal conditions. Numbers of stores have reopened and refugees who sought shelter in Presidio are rapidly returning.

The federal troops are still burning the bodies of dead rebels who were killed in the charge which cost them so many lives. There is every indication that the rebels charged in their last assault to within 200 yards of the federal trenches, but were literally mowed down by a withering rifle fire from the federals.

Federal scouts report that the rebels are at San Juan, twelve miles south of Ojinaga. At that point the rebels sent sixty-seven wounded across the Rio Grande to be treated. They were placed in a schoolhouse there and are being cared for by a United States army surgeon.

The rebel army combined is said to be in such numbers as to promise a formidable front to the last vestige of Huerta's northern military government, which, after its retreat from Chihuahua, is making a stand on the boundary.

HUERTA FLINGS OUT NEW DEFY

Declares Time Has Passed For Him to Give Any Consideration to Resigning.

IS BOUND BY SENSE OF DUTY

O'Shaughnessy Has Gone to Vera Cruz to Meet Jhon Lind—Financial Situation is Improved.

Mexico City, Jan. 8.—"Hell will hold both Woodrow Wilson and myself before I resign," said Dictator Huerta to an American visitor who called on him at the national palace. "The time has gone past when I will give the slightest consideration to any proposition that I leave the presidency. Once I might have resigned at the bidding of almost anyone, but now, no! It is not a question of pride, ambition or pomp with me, but a question of duty—nothing else."

Mexico City, Jan. 8.—United States Charge D'Affaires Nelson O'Shaughnessy left last night for Vera Cruz in response to a dispatch from John Lind requesting that he come to see him at once. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy accompanied her husband, but their little son remains at the embassy, which is in charge of Chief Clerk Walker.

Although Mr. O'Shaughnessy declined to discuss his trip, it is reported here on good authority that he carries a message from General Huerta to Mr. Lind. On the other hand, Mr. Lind probably has a message from President Wilson with special instructions for the charge d'affaires.

According to statements made here by well informed persons, there is every reason to believe that despite Mr. Wilson's declaration that no change would be made in the American policy after the president's interview with Special Envoy Lind, that he has commissioned Mr. Lind to propose new terms to Provisional President Huerta.

The belief prevails here that a rapprochement is impending. This feeling is strengthened by the fact that in reply to Huerta's New Year's greetings to President Wilson, Mr. O'Shaughnessy, acting under instructions, said to the provisional president:

"I am instructed to transmit greetings from the president of the United States to the Mexican people, as well as his earnest good wishes for the Mexican republic."

The financial situation seems to be improving. Many business institutions are now announcing that they will accept state bank bills and give change for same.

Indiana Retail Lumber Dealers Going to Visit Panama.

Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—Following the convention of the Indiana Retail Lumber Dealers' association to be held here on Jan. 20 and 21, about 100 members and their women friends will make a long sight-seeing trip through the yellow pine and cypress regions of the south, and some of the delegation will spend ten days along the Panama canal. The party will stop at Memphis, Jackson, New Orleans, Houston and numerous other points to see the milling operations, and will also take a trip on the historic Teche river. The tour will end at Kansas City, where the tourists will attend the convention of the Southwestern Lumber Dealers' association. In all of the cities visited the Hoosier party will be entertained by lumbermen's organizations and companies, as well as by commercial clubs. The party going to Panama will sail from New Orleans. Many reservations for the tour have been made with Harry C. Scarce of Mooresville, secretary of the Indiana association.

Getting Ready For New Jobs.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Peter J. Kruger of South Bend and Isaac R. The bonds of the new collectors have been received here and approved.

Struck Down on the Street.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 8.—Victor Ort, a young man, was found in the street here with a fractured skull. From all appearances Ort had been struck over the head with some heavy instrument. Physicians declare he cannot live. He has not recovered consciousness. Officers have no clue to his assailant.

Thieves Eluded Bloodhounds.

Bedford, Ind., Jan. 8.—Thieves raided the Heltger hardware store. Bloodhounds took the trail, which led to a point on the Monon railway, where the thieves evidently escaped by climbing a passing freight train.

The Morristown high school basketball team will be the attraction at the Graham gym tomorrow night, meeting the local high school team. The Rushville team has been practicing hard since their defeat last Saturday night by the Richmond team and believe they will beat Morristown. The team has lost games to Franklin, Lebanon and Richmond and has one victory to its credit, defeating Carthage. The team has plenty of material and Coach Smelser has hopes of developing a winner before the season is much farther advanced. The regular line-up will be used against Morristown and the game will be called at seven-thirty o'clock.

MAY TAKE FIELD AGAINST REBELS

This is Persistent Report Concerning Huerta's Intentions Circulated at Mexico City.

WASHINGTON HAS NEW PLANS

(By United Press.)

Mexico City, Jan. 8.—President Huerta persistently reported to have told friends in the Catholic party here that he would soon relinquish his provisional presidency in order to take the field against the Rebels.

Officials and diplomats denied that any Mexican accompanied John Lind to Pass Christian for his recent conference with President Wilson. Credence was given to reports that the United States government now has plans under way for an entirely new arrangement with regard to Mexico as a direct result of the Lind-Wilson conference.

EXPECT NO DEVELOPMENTS

O'Shaughnessy, at Vera Cruz, Will return to Mexico City.

(By United Press.)

Vera Cruz, Jan. 8.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy arrived today to confer with John Lind, special envoy to Mexico, to obtain from him President Wilson's instructions given recently at Pass Christian, Miss. The American Charge D'Affaires was accompanied by his wife. They left their little child in Mexico City, indicating they expect to return there and that they consider the situation is likely to remain quiet.

doubts whether a buyer could be found as it will cost $500 or $600 to make the needed repairs. The cost of new valves and coils alone is $400, he says, and there are doubtless other repairs needed. The whole cost of the improvements suggested, he estimates, would not be over $100.

TO END NEGOTIATIONS FOR DISGORING SOON

Pres. Elliott of N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. and Department of Justice to Arrive at Agreement.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 8.—Negotiations between the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and the department of justice regarding the road's disgorging itself in accordance with the administration's anti-monopoly policy progressed at a rapid rate today. President Elliott of the road left this afternoon, but will return next Saturday or Monday to conclude the negotiations.

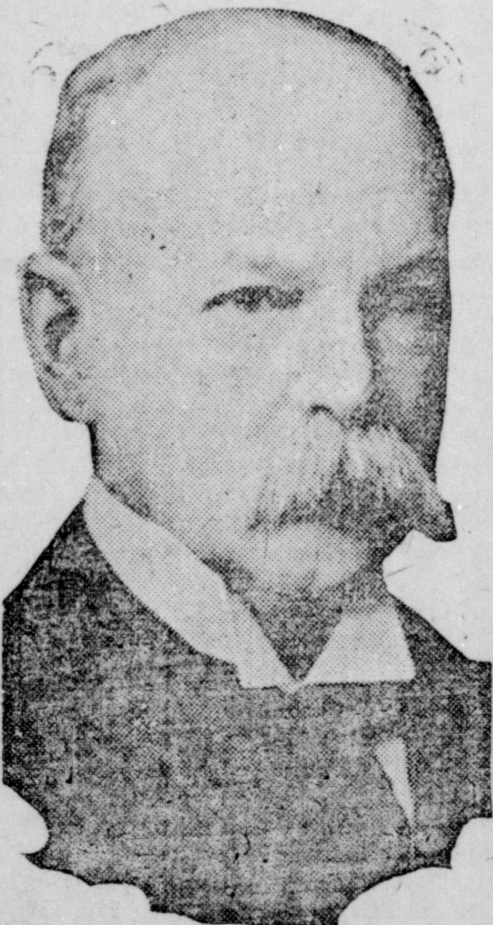

EUREKAS WON.

The Milroy Eureka defeated the Westport team last night 33 to 16 in a slow and uninteresting game. The Eureka completely outclassed their opponents and at no time did Westport have a show of winning. Next Wednesday the Eureka will play the Boys' Club of Indianapolis and on Friday night will take on the Carthage Independent team. The Eureka hope to win both games.

The sale of personal property of the Freman Elstun estate at the old home place, east of Milroy Wednesday was one of the largest attended sales held in Rush county for a long time. INDIVIDUAL CAN SAVE THE WORLD life, but what of him who saves a soul? The world is in spiritual danger. We meet our brother and say not a word about his danger. We work side by side at the bench with a man who is hungry for the bread of life and say not a word, yet do you wonder that the world thinks us inconsistent when we do not lead others to know him. Every Christian ought to be an evangelist."

The Rev. Yocum pointed out the value of individual work and cited an example: that seven of the twelve apostles of Christ were won by personal endeavor. He recalled the Bible showed that Christ talked to individuals nineteen times. He illustrated also by showing how much more valuable hand-picked fruit is.

He declared individual work was valuable because of the result which can be obtained. It was here that he pointed out that the United States could be evangelized in a month by individual work and the world in four and a half days more.

The minister said it was the church's preferred way; the most effective way, but the hardest. He said the indirect method was to persuade people to attend church so that the minister could reach them with preaching the Gospel. A far more eloquent method, he asserted, is to lead a consistent life. This, he said, is the strongest possible sermon. Men may preach eloquently, he declared, but you can preach more eloquently by your life. Talk is cheap, he said, but an exemplary life is priceless.

The direct method, the minister pointed out, is to speak personally to others. By speaking kindly, he said, and being persistent only souls are won. The Rev. Mr. Yocum cited examples. If each Christian, he said in conclusion, would feel his responsibility, there would be a revival continuously and the churches would be full.

Owners of Commercial Block Are Given Five Days by State Fire
Marshal to Clean up.

W. FRAME MUST RAZE SHACK

Walter Easley, Fire Chief, Who Served Them, Will Make Recommendations to Improve Department.

Acting on instructions from William E. Longley, state fire marshal, Walter Easley, the newly appointed chief of the city fire department, who, by virtue of his office, is an assistant to the state fire marshal according to a law passed by the last legislature creating the state office, served notice on the three owners of the Commercial block that they should clean up the second floor of the block and William Frame that he should raze an old frame shack in First street on the alley between Main and Morgan streets. In performing his regular duties as fire chief, Mr. Easley has taken an inventory of the equipment of the fire department and will report to the city council. He will make a number of recommendations looking to the betterment of the department.

Lon Link owns one room, William Helm two and Mrs. T. J. Geraghty one in the Commercial block. In the notices prepared by the fire marshal for building he renovated so as to remove as many dangers of fire as possible. It is pointed that there are a number of waste receptacles and other things where fire might easily originate.

The notices given the owners provide that the order shall be complied with in five days. The same number of days of grace are also given William Frame to remove the old fire trip in First street.

The state fire marshal law provides that if property owners do not act on the orders of the state fire marshal within thirty days, or any specific number of days set out in the order, the owner is liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars or more than fifty dollars for each day after the time limit has expired until the improvement is made.

Fire Chief Easley says that it is imperative that he serve the notices because failure to do so would make him liable to a fine. The same duty developed on the township trustees who are assistant fire marshals under the law in their respective townships just as the fire chiefs are. They are subject to a fine if they do not report every fire in their bailiwick.

Fire Chief Easley says that if people will pay more attention to fire hazards and keep them down as much as they possibly can, there is always a chance for the insurance rates to be lowered. Whenever the underwriters are certain, he declares, that the people are doing the best they can and the fire company is able to cope with any fire that might break out, they will reduce the rates.

The fire chief says that he found much worthless stock on hands at the fire headquarters and that he will recommend to the city council that he be allowed to hold a public sale and dispose of useless material.

He will recommend further that the small fire engine, which is out of repair, be moved to the shed east of the fire headquarters and that the old hose wagon be fixed up for an emergency wagon and placed where the small engine now sits. He will also advise that the east room be used for hose drying.

Chief Easley says that the small engine might as well be sold, but he

Contractors.

Charles E. Dalton has filed suit against Boucher and McCord, road contractors and the board of commissioners, composed of T. J. Hume, Edwin Aiken and William T. Moore, on a claim demanding $105. Dalton alleges that Boucher and McCord are indebted to him in the sum of $77.90 for board and labor while they were building the Murray-Moore road. He states that he filed the claim with the commissioners and that they held out $100 from the amount due Boucher and McCord but refuse to give it to him. He asks twenty-five dollars attorney fees in addition to the sum alleged to be due from the road contractors.

NO CHANCE FOR "BOOZERS"

To any young lady of pleasing looks, and who is not a confirmed "booze-fighter," the address of Mr. Edwin Ostin, Rushville, General Delivery, may be a signpost pointing out the way to happiness, says the Connersville News. An interesting letter reached the News today from Mr. Ostin. It explains that he is 22 years of age, good looking, and strictly sober. He desires to cultivate the acquaintance of some nice young lady who desires to settle down in life. Someone about his own age, or perhaps a little younger would, by the tone of his letter, have a kind of prima facie lead in the running. The writer says in so many words that boozers need not write to him. Those who are not hard drinkers, and who approximate the other simple and easy requirements mentioned by Mr. Ostin are invited to open correspondence with him at the address already given. Those who write are requested to send their photographs.

The farmers' institute was held at Mays today and Friday and institute will be in progress at Arlington. A corn show was held in connection with the institute at both places.

Maurice Douglas of Plattrock and Mrs. C. N. Lindsey of Salem were the special lecturers today and they will also appear at Arlington tomorrow. The Mays program began this morning at 9:30 o'clock, when an opening selection was played by the Center township orchestra. At the morning hour Mr. Douglas spoke on "Alfalfa and Other Legum Crops," and Mrs. Lindsey's subject was "Care and Management of the House."

This afternoon Mr. Douglas spoke on the topic "More Corn to the Acre," and Mrs. Lindsey, "How to Improve the Social Status of the Community." This evening at seven o'clock the lecture by Mr. Douglas will be on the subject, "Social Evenings on the Farm," and Mrs. Lindsey, "Proper Relations Between House Keeping and Home Making."

Premiums will be awarded for the best ten ears of yellow corn, the best ten ears of white corn and sweepstakes prizes, and also for the best plate of apples, the best pound of butter, the best loaf of yeast bread and best loaf of salt-rising bread. The poultry show and contest will also be held.

An extensive list of prizes is to be awarded at the institute of Walker and Posey townships at the Sampson hall in Arlington tomorrow. Mr. Douglas will speak on "More Corn to the Acre" in the morning, "Soil Improvement and Manures" in the afternoon, and "Silo and Silage" in the evening. Mrs. Lindsey's afternoon subject will be the same as that announced for this evening's program at Mays. "Domestic Science in the Rural Schools" will be the subject of her discussion in the evening.

Albert Mays was elected township chairman at the institute held at the Orange school house Tuesday. Ray Stevens is the new treasurer and Russell Young, secretary. Mrs. John Dawson and Mrs. F. S. McKee compose the program committee. Prof. R. J. Ogg of Greencastle and Mrs. Elizabeth Stanley of Liberty each gave two highly instructive addresses on farm topics. The special music was furnished by the Orange high school orchestra and Miss Goldie DeArmond.

R. H. Baker was elected chairman, Fred Knotts, vice-chairman and Berle Hinchman, secretary-treasurer at the institute at the Falmouth Odd Fellows hall this week. The lecturers were Prof. Ogg and Mrs. Stanley.

Since Mrs. Stanley has succeeded in keeping her own family on the farm, her advice on this particular subject was considered especially practical. The plan she used was to give the young folks an interest in the live stock and teach them they could dress and act the same as their much-admired city cousins, whose dresses did not "sag in the back."

In discussing "Types of Soil and Their Treatment," Prof. Ogg said the heavy loam or clay soil of this region presented the hardest problems, but that it would give the best results under proper treatment. He advised

INDIVIDUAL CAN SAVE THE WORLD

Rev. C. M. Yocum Emphasizes Price-
less Value of Personal Work in Winning Souls.

Rev. A. W. Jamieson Will Preach at
tian Church Tonight.

If only one man in the world knew the Gospel message, and he gave it to one person one day these two in turn each gave it to one person the next day and so, the message would have been heard by every man, woman and child in the United States in a month, and in four days and a half after that, every person in the world would be reached by the same scheme.

This was the startling assertion of the Rev. C. M. Yocum in the third of the series of the week of prayer union service at the St. Paul M. E. church last evening, when he spoke on the subject "Personal Persuasion." It was made during the course of his convincing argument in favor of personal work above all other methods.

Tonight's meeting will be at the Main Street Christian church at seven-thirty and the speaker will be the Rev. A. W. Jamieson, pastor of the United Presbyterian church. His subject will be, "Confessing Christ."

"Monday evening," said the Rev. Mr. Yocum, the subject "discussed was 'The Church's Responsibility to the Unconverted.'" Tuesday night we were persuaded that this responsibility can be met only through prayer and tonight we want to be more specific in placing the responsibility of the church.

"The church's responsibility embraces society, the state and the nation, but in the last analysis its fundamental and important responsibility is to the individual. And as the church is a body of individuals, the church's duty after all is an individual duty. The individual's responsibility to the individual is therefore the supreme obligation. When we stand before God on the Judgment day, He will not ask, 'What did your church do,' but 'What did you do?'"

"The church's message makes it imperative for the individual to go forth and do the work. Without Christ, the nation, society and the individual are lost, not alone for eternity, but lost to the better, nobler things here. I am one who believes that there is something more infinite than the salvation of a soul, that is the salvation of a life that carries with it the salvation of a soul into eternity."

"Christ alone can save. This is the teaching of God's word and the experience of man. Therefore, since our brothers are without hope without Christ, we must be about our father's business. If there is an individual here in Rushville who is groping about in darkness, shall we not realize that we shall go out and lead him forth."

The Rev. Mr. Yocum recalled many incidents of nation-wide prominence where heroes have saved people from physical danger. He recounted the story of Paul Revere, the hero of the mine disaster in West Virginia and the hero of Canamough valley disaster who gave his life to warn the people of Johnstown, Pa., that the dam had broken.

"If men will do these things to save lives," he commented, "why will they not hasten to save men from losing their souls for all eternity? We count a hero the man who saves a

KNOX'S WIFE DISAPPEARS

Years Ago Gone.

(By United Press.)
Philadelphia, Jan. 8.—The shop girl, with whom the son of Former Secretary of State Philander C. Knox eloped four years ago, has disappeared from here, it became known today. Thetthus—a c f er husband and his mother sailed for Bermuda yesterday has given weight to the stories that trouble exists between the two. Mr. Knox, Jr., says that talk of trouble is premature.

FINLY GRAY MAY HAVE OPPOSITION

May Take Hand in Sixth District Politics.

(By United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind. Jan. 8.—It is rumored here that the regular Democratic organization in Indiana may itself step into the contest in the sixth Congressional District and unhorse Finly Gray of Connersville, present representative from that district. A man supposed to represent the sentiments of Thomas Taggart gave out an interview, not allowing the use of his name, in which he said that it is the sense of the organization Democrats that some one else ought to succeed Gray. It is reported also that arrangements looking to this end have been made, although the name of the man to succeed Gray has not been given out.

DISCORDANT NOTE AT STATE MEETING

Rival Booms For All State Offices and
Congressional Places Injected

(By United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—Rival booms for every office in the coming state and congressional elections were the only discordant notes in the otherwise harmonious and enthusiastic meeting of the new Democratic state central committee here today. Bernard Korbly of Indianapolis was re-elected state chairman.

The state convention will be held in Indianapolis March 19, the committee voted. W. A. Kunkel of Bluffton was elected vice-chairman and Hugh Dougherty of Indianapolis treasurer. Resolutions praising the work of Woodrow Wilson, Tom Taggart, Governor Ralston and the Indiana congressional delegation, including Vice-president Marshall, were passed. The secretary is to be appointed by the chairman. Bert New will not be re-appointed because his work as legal advisor to the Governor takes all his time.

SPECIALS AT ARLINGTON.

The Rushville Specials will journey to Arlington tonight to meet the basket ball team of that place. The Specials are playing at a fast clip and expect to give Arlington a close game. All of the regulars are expected to report at the traction station not later than 7:05 p. m. to take the 7:17 car.

The women of the First Baptist church will hold an exchange in the Morris hardware store Saturday.

BACK TO SCENE OF DEPORTATION

President of Western Federation of Miners is Back on the Job at Hancock, Mich.

"COME TO FINISH HIS WORK"

Cheering Thousands.

(By United Press.)
Hancock, Mich., Jan. 8.—Charles A. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, this afternoon returned to the scene of his deportation two weeks ago.

"I have come to finish my work as I said I would do," declared Moyer. "I do not anticipate any trouble with our enemies. The secretary of our union would have me make an investigation and the grand jury is already investigating the first assault on me."

The secretary of the union accompanied Moyer here. The two labor leaders shipped out of Chicago last night two days after Moyer left the hospital.

Moyer was on the verge of a collapse when he arrived here, due to his lengthy rail journey. A squad of fifty deputy sheriffs met him at the station when he arrived, placed him in an automobile and escorted him to his apartments in the hotel.

A large throng of strikers gathered as the crowd moved toward the hotel and gave the strike leader a remarkable ovation. From the station to the hotel, cheering thousands lined the streets. The scene today was in striking contrast to that when Moyer was deported. Members of the Citizens Alliance, on whom was placed the blame for the deportation of Moyer, mingled with the crowd today.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

(By United Press.)
New York, Jan. 8.—The regular semi-annual dividend on common stock and a two per cent. dividend on preferred stock was declared by the directors of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad here today.

Helping Women With Their Housework

Do you know that the number of articles made for the purpose of helping women in their house work numbers hundreds of thousands?

Do you know that the stores in this town carry the best of these devices and machines?

Do you know that the advertising in this newspaper often carries the news of these very things?

Now what news could be more important to a woman than that which tells her of a way in which she can lighten her burdens?

This is only one example of the hundreds of instances of helpfulness offered by the advertising.

Make use of the service that is offered to you in your daily newspaper each day. Keep posted. Get the best there is out of life.

Law On Morgan.

Washington, Jan. 8.—The dispute over the will of Martha Washington threatens to find its way into the courts. One side is represented by J. P. Morgan, who has possession of the document, and on the other side are leading citizens of Virginia, headed by Representative Charles A. Carlin of that state.

Angered by the refusal of Mr. Morgan to give up the will, which he inherited as a part of the estate of his father, the late J. P. Morgan, the state of Virginia, through certain prominent citizens of the state, intends to go to law to recover the will, according to an announcement made by Representative Carlin.

"We will try to indict Mr. Morgan for theft if he persists in keeping this historic document, now that he knows that it was stolen," declared Mr. Carlin. "Under the statute, a man who keeps in his possession stolen property is a participant in the crime."

Thieves Beat Aged Grocer.
New Albany, Ind., Jan. 8.—Henry Hankey, aged eighty-five, proprietor of a little general store on the Corydon pike, west of the city, for the last sixty years, was found bound and gagged on the floor. He had been beaten about the head and was unconscious. His condition is serious and he may not recover.

County News Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Swain visited Samuel Phares and family one day last week.

Charlie Northam has been very sick since Friday. He was threatened with appendicitis.

Jesse Wall has been working for Julius Gahimer.

Albert Rigsbee and mother have returned from their visit in Iowa.

D. M. Pressnall and family were entertained for dinner at Austin Davis' Sunday. Mrs. Phebe Kizer is taking care of Sallie Davis, who is an invalid.

The W. M. Quarterly meeting will be held at Carthage next Saturday and Sunday. Rev. Jacob Hester will preside.

The revival services will begin at the W. M. church here next Monday night.

Willie Swain's, who formerly resided in Indianapolis, are moving into the house on Phebe Folger's place and will move onto one of Emerson Burnard's farms in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Warfield, of Homer, and Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook, of near Ray's Crossing, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Macy Tuesday of last week.

We noticed a short item in the Indianapolis Star by Strickland Gillian where he seemed to have understood from one of last week's items that "what saved Paul Miller was having the pneumonia." We wish to inform him that Paul Miller has recovered from pneumonia, and his parents visited his grandmother, Mrs. Sarah McMichael Sunday. Mr. Gillian called them "Summer items," but we would rather think they were "winter items."

Plum Creek.

The Aid Society meets Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James H. Hays.

The funeral of Mrs. Datus Hollowell, which was held at Raleigh last Monday, was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hall of California have been making a several days' stay with relatives in this neighborhood. They will soon start for the West where they will make it their permanent home.

Miss Florence Nipp had as her guest the past week, Miss Florence Burgess of Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Hays celebrated their fiftieth anniversary on Wednesday by inviting about fifty of their friends. A delicious dinner was prepared with the aid of the children and grandchildren. They received many handsome and useful presents. The day was spent in a sociable way and all departed wishing them many more happy years together.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kemmer have arrived home after spending a week with their sons, Alva and Eugene, of Lafayette, and Claude, of Indianapolis. Eugene expects this year to be his last at Purdue and will be located elsewhere soon after.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ayers and two sons of Shirley have been guests of Wash Hood and family the past week.

Raleigh.

Mrs. Mariah Smullen and son Albert entertained the following, Saturday evening: Misses Luella Elwell, Cora Parrish and Jennie Miles; and the Messrs. Ralph Elwell and Melville Goodwin.

The funeral services of Mrs. D. E. Hollowell occurred at the Raleigh Christian church, Monday at 10 a. m.

Miss Florence Nipp spent Monday night with Miriam White at Mays.

Miss Cora Parrish was guest of Mrs. Simon Borders a few days this week.

Miss Florence Burgess of Richmond returned home Sunday after visiting friends and relatives around here.

Treat Alsations.

Strassburg, Jan. 8.—At the court
martial which is trying Colonel Von Renter, District Commissioner Mueller of Zabern charged that the military authorities were endeavoring to obscure the proceedings at the trial in
an effort to clear the accused officers.
Herr Mueller protested against the
records of the preliminary hearings
and asserted that statements were ascribed to him which he had never made. Colonel Von Renter's counsel
sharply repudiated this charge, declaring it was an absolute falsehood. Herr Grossmann, another civilian official of Zabern, together with Herr Mueller,
testified that the colonel said it would
be a good thing if blood should flow in
the streets of the Alsatian town.
Herr Mueller said that when he reminded Colonel Von Renter that the citizens had done no harm and had
merely watched the soldiers go by, the
officer replied:
"I am determined to put an end to
this at any cost. I will not permit the people to laugh in this manner. They
shoot."

TOOK REFUSAL TO HEART

New York Young Man Kills His Sweet-
heart and Himself.
New York, Jan. 8.—John Oscar
Peterson-Block, a youth of nineteen,
killed his sweetheart, Rose Smith, of
the same age, and ended his own life
in the Hotel Belmont.
The motive for the murder and suicide was suggested by the girl's father,
who told the police that he had objected to young Peterson-Block's at-
tentions to his daughter because the
boy had no prospects. Mr. Smith believed that Peterson-Block took Rose
to the hotel for the purpose of induc-
ing her to marry without the consent
of her parents, and that when she refused he shot her and then himself.

Found Guilty of Operating Fake
Matrimonial Bureau But Let go
Pending Good Behavior.

USED MAILS TO EXTORT MONEY

Daughter Was Drawing Card For Prospective Suitors—Her Case
to Come up Soon.

Emma Farris of Princeton, Ind., indicted by the federal grand jury, with
their daughter, Louise Farris, or using the mails in operating a "fake" matrimonial bureau and detained in jail
since their arraignment shortly before Christmas, appeared in federal court
and changed their plea of not guilty to
guilty. Judge Anderson suspended
judgment in the case of Martin Farris
and suspended judgment, during good
Another daughter, Ora Mabel, who
testified against them before the grand
jury, came to Indianapolis and appeared in court, asking the judge to be
lenient with them. Upon being questioned by the judge, she intimated that
her mother was the real leader in the
the letters and received most of the answers containing presents.
When the Farris were arraigned
originally Mr. and Mrs. Farris entered
a plea of not guilty, but later pleaded
guilty. Then upon hearing the mass
of evidence introduced by the district
attorney, they entered a vigorous de-
nial and were permitted to change
their plea to not guilty. They were remanded to jail in lieu of bond and had
been there since.

scheme, is at present under the care
of the Rev. A. E. Hurlstone of this city. She pleaded guilty and sentence
was suspended pending the outcome of
the case against her parents. It is not known what disposition will be made
of her case. Louise played the part
of a young heiress in the matrimonial
scheme. Her pictures and letters led
to her engagement to more than fifty
men at one time, so the authorities
asserted. Five suitors once appeared
at Princeton, each to claim her as his
own.

COAL PASSER DECAPITATED

Distressing Accident at the Anderson
City Light Plant.

Anderson, Ind., Jan. 8.—William H.
Barnes, aged fifty-two, employed at
the city light plant, was decapitated
and his body was crushed when he fell
into the shaft between the coal bins
and the hopper over the stokers in the furnace room. The hopper was clogged by the man's body, and the large steel buckets that lift coal had stopped before the engineer discovered the cause. The head was found
in one bucket in the furnace room, one
foot was in another bucket, and a hand
also was severed. Men worked half an hour extricating the body.
Barnes was shoveling coal when he
met his death, and no one witnessed
the accident.

Declared War on Dogs.

High Hopes For Future.

In his message read to the council at its maiden meeting, Mayor C. L. Belmont indicates that he has a thorough grasp of the situation in the city just now and offers some splendid suggestions for remedying many of the ailments that have sprung up.

He pointed out that this administration is beginning its duties with a depleted treasury, even though there is an apparent balance of $5,271 available for present uses. Bills outstanding turned over by the outgoing council reduce this "balance" to $503.41. In addition to all this, he showed, the city has a bonded indebtedness of $45,000, including $32,000 water and light plant bonds and $13,000 in demand notes. A majority of the notes and many of bonds were issued during the last year, the mayor declared.

This reveals quite plainly the inefficient manner in which the outgoing city administration attended to Rushville's affairs and further shows how hampered the present council is at the very outset. The mayor hoped, he said, to save some money by recommending a bond issue to take up the outstanding demand notes and anticipate them, and in addition, the money can be obtained at a much cheaper rate than that which is now being paid.

All of the mayor's recommendations in his message are very timely and we wish for the people of Rushville the happy solution of all the grave problems that confront the city to the end that this may be a well regulated city. The council and the mayor have high hopes of success, and all having one aim in view and being in perfect accord, they should get results.

The rules which have become effective at the water and light plant indicate that order and system is to come out of confusion. Definite lines of work are to be laid down for each employee and each one shall know to whom he is accountable. "Failure to operate properly boilers, engines, pumps, or other machinery, whether from incompetency, neglect, carelessness or disloyalty to the best interests of the plant shall be deemed valid cause for dismissal, says the rules. "Honest, sobriety and loyalty are of prime importance and will be demanded of all employees." This has the proper ring, and with the kind of management that is to be injected into the general order of things at the plant good results should be wrought.

as most important perfect drainage. This removes surplus water and allows a deeper penetration of the air, which acts as a sort of ventilating system to the soil. He pointed out that water and air can not occupy the same space, and when the water is removed, the air enters the soil, producing a medium for the growth of bacteria which are so important in making plant food in the soil available.

"Plow deeply," he exhorted, "at least to a depth of eight inches. This lowers the seed bed and gives the root systems a great range and a larger supply of food. Don't plow when the ground is wet, plowing is supposed to break up the soil, but plowing heavy loam or clay when it is wet tends to produce the very opposite effect. The soil is huddled and the plant food is rendered unavailable.

"Plow under much legumes and manure. This furnishes the humus to the soil. It also supplies the soil with the beneficial bacteria, airs the soil, makes it more friable and puts it in better condition generally for cultivation. Lime the soil if testing with humus paper shows acidity. Red clover will not produce a rank growth on an acid soil. Use fertilizer rich in phosphorus as the soil is liable to be rich enough in potash and the nitrogen content may be increased by legumes."

In the afternoon Prof. Ogg spoke of many things which tend to retard the revival of rural life and of the conditions which must be brought about to raise rural life to the standard which it deserves.

town to become a 'dead beat' and leaving the farm to some tenant who mines instead of farms the land and who does very little to make life in the neighborhood better. The signs that country life are in the midst of a dawn for better things are the stir of new life, organizations of farmers' and club and farmers' co-operative unions and aroused interest in literary and social life. Science is making rural life more interesting and the day of the ideal county life is approaching."

In an address on "An Investment Worth While" Mrs. Stanley said too many people, like the farmer, think an investment worth while is one which will enable him to raise more hogs. An investment worth while, rather, according to Mrs. Stanley, is one which will add morality, intelligence and happiness to our lives.

Amusements

"A Princess of Bagdad," the spectacular eight reel production will be shown again tonight at the Portola. The picture pleased large audiences last night. Helen Gardner is seen in the leading role. The story is easily followed and is very dramatic. The picture is staged to perfection and the costumes are quite elaborate. Besides the dramatic interest, the picture contains a good deal of comedy. The shows start at 6:30 and 8:30 o'clock.

The Princess will show a two-reel feature entitled "In Love and War." It tells an interesting story and is said to be full of dramatic situations. The picture is staged amid excellent settings. The other is an Edison comedy "A Woodlawn Paradise." Mary Fuller is featured in this production. Charles Carlton will sing tonight "Beans, Beans, Beans!" A two reel feature showing Maurice Costello "The War makers" will be shown tomorrow night.

The Gem will show a three reel feature "The Restless Spirit" for tonight. It is a Universal production and features Warren Kerrigan. This is the first picture Kerrigan played in for this company. The production is said to be very elaborate containing a number of picturesque settings. Eln dupnor-fLuetitocetore

The patrons of English's Opera House, Indianapolis, are to have an opportunity to see the play which produced such a profound sensation in New York last year, and which is now duplicating that success in Chicago. "The Poor Little Rich Girl," which will visit Indianapolis during the entire week of January 12th, playing matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. This story deals with the life of a little girl who was surrounded by all the luxuries which money could buy; attendants to do her slightest bidding; toys galore; but one thing was lacking—parental love. Her father was very busy piling up fortunes; her mother was engaged in a struggle for social supremacy, and their poor little daughter was left to hired attendants. Naturally she heard much gossip. The servants said her father was made of money; her mother had a social bee in her bonnet, the butler had big ears, the governess was a snake in the grass, the nurse two-faced, but she didn't quite understand what they meant. One evening her nurse desired an evening off, so she gave her little charge a powerful sleeping potion. The child slept, and dreamed in her dreams that everyone appeared to her in fantastic form. Her father's clothes were made of bills; her mother appeared before her with a bonnet on her head on top of which was a buzzing bee; the butler had marvelous ears, much too large; her governess moved about and looked like a snake, and her nurse was a monstrosity with two faces. The doctor who is called to attend her, leads her away from these fearful fancies and restores her to her normal mind.

EXPECT RESULTS FROM CHURCH WORK

Evangelistic Movement of Far-Reaching Importance Started by Indianapolis Churches.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—An evangelistic movement of far-reaching importance is being undertaken by the federated Protestant churches of Indianapolis. Its keynote is organized, steady effort.

Modern methods—among them the newspaper advertisement—are to be used in carrying the Church to the people. Weekly the Church Federation inserts prominently a simply worded appeal. "Making Happiness—A man's Job" was the heading of the last one.

"The making of a Happy New Year for all our people—here is a real man's job," says the advertisement. "Love thy neighbor as thyself"—such is the Divine command.

"Every man and woman is your neighbor. The banker and the clerk are neighbors. The corporation president and the laborer are neighbors. The mistress and the maid are neighbors. Love them as you love yourself. There's the job. It is almost a superhuman task. But it may be accomplished, for God does not require the impossible. Man-made laws alone will not bring happiness. But the observance of God's laws will."

TAKES CHILDREN TO HOME

James Miller, county probation officer, left this morning for Indianapolis, taking with him the seven children of Charles Wevie, living south of the city, who will be placed in the orphan's home there. The children were made wards of the juvenile court some time ago and their father only recently consented to sending them to the orphan's home. Their ages range from two to twelve years.

Goodbye Dandruff

Parisian Sage Stops Falling Hair and Itching Scalp Removes Dandruff With One Application.

If your hair is too thin, make it grow. If it is too dry and brittle, soften it up—lubricate it. If you have dandruff it is because the scalp is too dry and flakes off. Freshen up the scalp and dandruff will go.

Parisian Sage, always sold by F. B. Johnson & Co., druggists, in 50-cent bottles, is just what you need to make your scalp healthy and immediately remove dandruff—your hair wavy, lustrous and abundant.

You cannot be disappointed in Parisian Sage. It quickly stops itching head; cleanses the hair of dust and excessive oil; takes away the dryness and brittleness; makes it seem twice as abundant and beautifies it until it is soft and lustrous. (Advertisement.)

CHAPTER XV.
Gertrudis Garavel.

LIKE most Latin-American cities, Panama prides herself upon her government theater. Although it remains dark most of the year, its brief period of opera is celebrated by a notable outpouring of Americans and Panamanians. It was an exceedingly well dressed audience, for although the pit was plentifully sprinkled with men in white, the two lower galleries in solid full dress. In the center box of the first tier, ornately hung with flags and a coat of arms, Anthony beheld a giant black man of majestic appearance, flanked by a half dozen aids in uniform.

"That is President Galles," Edith told him.

"As the curtain fell on the first act Kirk rose with the others and, accompanied by Mrs. Cortlandt, made his way down the long passageway and out into a brightly lighted, highly decorated foyer, filling now with voluble people. It was a splendid room, but he had no eyes for it. His gaze was fixed upon the welcome open air promenade outside, and his fingers fumbled with his cigarette case.

There, not a yard away, was the girl of his dreams demurely bowing to Edith Cortlandt, her hand upon the arm of a swarthy man, whom Kirk knew at once as her father. He felt the blood rush blindingly to his head, felt it drumming at his ears, knew that he must be staring like a man bereft. Mrs. Cortlandt was speaking, and he caught the name "Garavel" like a bugle call.

She was the same dainty, desirous maid he had met in the forest, but now splendidly radiant and perfect beyond his imagining. She was no longer the simple wood sprite, but a tiny princess in filmy white molded by some master craftsman. As on that earlier meeting, she was thrilling with some subtle mirth which flickered on her lips or danced in the depths of her great, dark eyes.

How he ever got through that wild introductory moment without making a show of himself Anthony never knew. The general confusion perhaps helped to hide his emotion, for around them eddied a constant human tide, through which at last came Mr. Cortlandt and the other members of his party. Then by some glorious miracle Kirk found himself moving toward the open air at her side, with Mrs. Cortlandt and the banker in advance of them.

At the tremendous intensity of his tone she flashed him a startled glance. "Chiquita is not my name," she said, reprovingly.

"Yes, it is; it must be. I can't think of you by any other. Hasn't it been whispering at my ears ever since you said it? It has nearly driven me mad. Why didn't you come back as you promised?"

"It was Stephanie—she is such a ferocious person! I was brought to the city that day—but no, señor. I did not promise. I said only 'perhaps.'"

"Have you done your penance?"

"It was finished yesterday. This is the first time I have been out. Oh, it is delightful. The music—the people!"

"And I can come to see you now?"

"Very well do you know that you cannot. Have you not learned our customs? Do not be foolish, or I shall be forced to walk with my father."

"Don't do that. Can't you see we must make haste while the curtain is down?"

"I do not see. I am strolling in search of the cool air." She bowed and smiled at some passing friends. She seemed very careless, very flippant. She was not at all the impetuous, mischievous Chiquita he had met in the woods.

"See here!" he said, soberly. "We can't go on this way. Now that I've met your father, I'm going to explain my intentions to him, and ask his permission to call on you."

"My father is a stern man. In his home he is entirely a Spaniard, and if he learned how—we met, for instance—even under the electric light he saw her dash—he would create a terrible scene."

"Trust me! I shan't tell him."

"There are so many reasons why it is useless."

"Name one."

"One!" She shrugged lightly. "In the first place I care nothing for you. Is not that enough?"

"No, indeed. You'll get over that."

"Let us imagine, then, the contrary. You Americans are entirely different from our people. You are cold, deliberate, wicked—your social customs are not like ours. You do not at all understand us. How then could you be interested to meet a Spanish family?"

"Why, you're half American."

"Oh, yes, although it is to be regretted. Why, there is no other nice girl in all Panama who would have talked with you as I did in the forest that day."

"It is difficult to explain, since you will not understand. When a young man is accepted into a Spanish house, many things are taken for granted. Besides that, we do not know each other, you and I. Also, if you should come to see me it would cause gossip, misunderstanding among my friends."

"I'll declare myself in advance," he promised warmly.

"No, no, no! We Spanish-Americans do not care for strangers. We have our own people and we are satisfied. It is much better that old people who are of more experience should discuss these questions."

"But don't you want to have a voice in your own affairs?" he eagerly urged. She answered frankly: "I do rebel sometimes. I protest, but it is only the American blood in me."

"If you'd learn to know me a little bit, maybe you'd enjoy having me around the house."

"But I cannot know you, any more than you can know me," she cried, with a little gesture of despair at his dulness. "Don't you see—before we could get acquainted nicely people would be talking."

"Let's try. You're living at the country place again, aren't you? Suppose I should get lost some day—tomorrow, for instance?"

"No, no! Listen. It is the warning bell, and we must return."

The crowd was filling into the theater now. They fell in behind Señor Garavel and Mrs. Cortlandt.

"I'm going hunting again tomorrow," prophesied Kirk, "and I'm almost certain to lose my way—about 3 o'clock. Suppose we have another stroll after the next act?"

"I shall be with my father. Never before have I enjoyed so much liberty," she sighed gratefully.

"Oh, I detest your blarney, strait-laced Spanish customs," he cried hotly. "What do they amount to, anyhow? I love you. I do, I do!"

She laughed and darted to her father's side.

"Don't you think Miss Garavel is a pretty girl?" Mrs. Cortlandt questioned, as they strolled toward their box.

"You got along together capitally. Most of the señoritas are impossible."

"By the way, what is her name?"

"Gertrudis. Rather pleasing, I think."

Kirk thought so too. When, after an age, the curtain fell for a second time he escaped from his companions, mumbling some excuse or other, and made haste to find her again. But as he approached he felt a sudden pang of jealous rage.

Ramon Alfarez was beside her, and the two were chatting with an appearance of intimacy that made him furious. Close at hand stood Garavel, deep in conversation with Colonel Jolson.

"Ah, Ramon. I wish you to meet Mr. Anthony," said Gertrudis. "So! You have met before?"

"In Colon," Kirk explained, while Alfarez scowled him with his eyes. "Mr. Alfarez was very hospitable to me."

"Yes," the Spaniard exclaimed. "It is my great regret that Señor Anthony did not remain for longer. Does Señor Anthony discover our climate to be still agreeable?"

"Very. It hasn't grown too warm for me yet."

"We are but approaching our 'ot season.' The speaker's eyes snapped.

Heretofore Kirk had hated Ramon in a careless, indifferent sort of way, feeling that he owed him a good drubbing, which he would be pleased to administer if ever a fitting time arrived. But now, since he saw that the jackanapes had the audacity to love Gertrudis, his feeling became intense. The girl, of course, was fully alive to the situation and, although she evidently enjoyed it, she did her best to stand between the two men.

As for Alfarez, he was quick to feel the sudden fierce hostility he had aroused, and it seemed to make him nervous. Moreover, he conceived that he had scored heavily by his last retort, at which Kirk had only smiled. It therefore seemed best to him to withdraw from the conversation (annoyingly conducted in English), and a few moments later he stalked majestically away. This was just what Kirk wanted, and he quickly suggested the balcony. But Gertrudis was obstinate. "I must remain with my father," she said.

"May I sit beside you, then? Do you know, I'm going to nestle up to your father and make him like me."

"Again you are speaking of that subject. I have known you but an hour, and you talk of nothing but my father, of me, of coming to call. I have lost all modesty to speak of those things. You force me to embarrass myself."

"You once spoke of a chap your people had picked out. It isn't—Alfarez?" She let her dark eyes rest upon his a moment, and his senses swam. Then she nodded slowly.

"You do not like him?"

"Just like a nose bleed. The day you and I are married I'm going to send him a wreath of poison ivy."

"It pleases you always to joke."

"No joke about that. You won't give in, will you?"

A few moments later he was constrained to rejoin his hostess' party.

"When are you going back to Las Vegas?" he asked as he reluctantly arose.

"Tomorrow."

"The hunting ought to be good"—

But she frowned at him in annoyance, and he left her after all without knowing whether he had gained or lost ground. She was not so warm and impulsive as he had supposed. Her girlishness, her simplicity, her little American ways, clouded a deep reserve and a fine sense of the difference in their positions. The plague of it was that if anything he was more in love with the definite and dazzling Gertrudis Garavel than he had been with the mysteriously alluring Chiquita. And then, too, there was Alfarez!

GOVERNMENT EXPERT WANTS MORE POWER

Alsberg Urges Need of Better Food Laws.

Washington, Jan. 8.—A widespread crusade against "cheats and cheapeners of food products" was begun here with an address by Dr. Carl Alsberg, chief of the bureau of chemistry, department of agriculture, before the woman's department of the National Civic federation.

Dr. Alsberg emphasized the imperative need of strengthening and extending the scope of the pure food and drug act, and urged the women to co-operate with the government officers in an effort to obtain additional legislation, supplementing the present laws.

Pointing out inadequacies of the existing law, Dr. Alsberg said legislation was needed to permit federal inspections of all factories where foods and drinks are manufactured. Such a law, he declared, would within several years do away with epidemics of typhoid and similar dangerous diseases.

Retail Druggists of Rushville

Receive a "Tar Heel" Remedy

A Vapor Treatment in the Form of a Salve—Relieves Colds Over Night, Croup in Fifteen Minutes—Druggists Will Give Away 25-Cent Packages Free.

The local druggists will soon receive from North Carolina, the "Tar Heel" state, a remedy for all cold troubles that is entirely different from the usual run of cough syrups and cold tablets.

It is in the form of a salve that is vaporized by the heat of the body when applied to the throat and chest. These antiseptic vapors are inhaled with each breath and combined with the absorption of the preparation through the skin, give almost immediate relief in even the worst cases of croup and relieve head and chest colds over night.

But the fact of most interest to mothers about this new treatment is that it is external and can thus be used with perfect safety on the youngest member of the family.

In cases of insipient pneumonia or severe colds first apply hot wet towels to open the pores of the skin, then rub the salve in well and cover with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the covers loose around the neck so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. The next morning you hardly realize you had a cold as the head is clear, phlegm loosened and soreness gone from the lungs.

In advanced cases of pneumonia the use of this preparation in connection with the regular physician's treatment will greatly aid the patient's chances of recovery. Combined with the absorption of the treatment through the skin, the medicated vapors inhaled loosen the wreckage in the lungs and render the breathing less difficult. This takes part of the work from the overtaxed heart and thus lowers the fever.

These seem strong claims, but the wholesale houses in Indiana who have investigated the results of this treatment in the South, are so convinced of its merit that they have authorized the retail druggists to sell it on 30 days' trial and to refund the price to any user who is not delighted with the results.

In addition the druggists are arranging to give away a limited number of 25-cent packages free to their regular customers. Present the coupon below and if your dealer has not yet received his shipment he will reserve you a package.

MESSAGE READ TO INDIANA BRANCHES

Dr. Anna Shaw Says Suffrage Movements Had Active Year, in Greetings to League.

WILL CONTINUE CAMPAIGN.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—A new year's message from Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman's suffrage Association, is being read at meetings of the fifty-five branches of the Indiana Woman's Franchise league.

"If 1914 is not a record year for suffrage activities all signs will fail," says the message. "First and foremost of the strategical points of attack is Congress, with the Senate Committee on Suffrage having already presented their unanimous report to that body. In the meantime there are the States in which amendments are already pending, and those in which initiative petitions are being circulated. Then come the seven Southern States, where legislative assemblies meet this year. The few remaining States in which immediate action the campaigns are not in progress will be kept busy preparing for the campaigns of 1915."

BEEF IMPORTATION TAKES A BIG SPURT

Under New Tariff Law Number of Pounds Shipped Last Two Months Triples Whole of 1912.

NEARLY HALF FROM CANADA

(Special to the Daily Republican) Washington, Jan. 8.—The placing of beef on the tariff free list has resulted in a vast increase in the importation of foreign beef and meat products. During October and November, the Department of Agriculture reported today, 18,000,000 pounds of meat and its products were brought from abroad. This is more than triple the amount imported for the whole of 1912.

Nearly half of the imports, or 8,000,000 pounds came from Canada. Argentina supplied 6,000,000 pounds, Australia 3,000,000 and Uruguay 550,000.

MANY KILLED IN RECENT BATTLE

Constitutionalists Strengthen Their Position by Victories in State of Coahuila.

Juarez, Jan. 8.—One hundred and thirty soldiers, eighty-seven federals and the rest rebels, were killed in a recent battle between the Huerta and Constitutional forces eight miles northwest of Torreon, according to advices reaching General Benavides at Juarez.

Two thousand federals, who had sallied out of Torreon, evidently to make a flank movement around the rebel forces besieging the city, were driven back into Torreon.

Of the eighty-seven federals killed, six were officers. The rebel loss is estimated at forty-three dead and sixty wounded. The federal wounded, it is reported, will number close to 150. Twenty-eight prisoners were captured and executed by the rebels, according to the reports received by General Benavides.

The heaviest fighting occurred in the open country that lies between Aviles and Salamanca, a suburb of Torreon. The defeat of the federals, rebels say, demoralized the federal army of 4,000 men in Torreon and evacuation of the city is expected.

Constitutionalist forces, under Colonel Eulalio Gutierrez and General Jose Robles have recaptured the important towns of Parras, Cepeda and San Pedro, Coahuila, from federal forces, after three days fighting, according to official advices also received by General Benavides. No details of the losses on either side or the number of men involved in the fighting, have been received in Juarez. Possession of the two points give the rebels a big advantage over the federal army in Torreon, which is more thoroughly than ever now cut off from communication with Saltillo and Monterrey, from which points it had expected to draw its military and food supplies.

Federal army officers from the garrison at Ojinaga are deserting and offering their services to Constitutionalists in Juarez, according to rebel officials in Juarez. Four officers from the Twenty-fifth battalion of federal infantry, it is claimed, have reached Juarez, and offered to join the rebel army. They are being welcomed by the rebels.

Villa Preparing For Final Assault on Belaguered Town.

Presidio, Tex., Jan. 8.—If Pancho Villa has arrived in the rebel camp to assume command of the Constitutional forces surrounding Ojinaga, he has made no effort to resume the battle, and is awaiting the rest of his reinforcements.

Meantime, every hour that elapses is giving the federals further time to make their position more impregnable to the assaults of the rebel army, and federal officers appear to be very little in fear of the renewed attack by the rebels. General Francisco Castro, who with General Mercado is jointly in command of the federals, declared: "Let Villa come on with all his forces; we're ready for him."

When Villa reached the rebel camp near Ojinaga, according to the rebels, he immediately began plans for a renewed attack upon the federal stronghold. Not all, if any, of the reinforcements from Chihuahua arrived with him, as he came in an automobile.

In the face of the rebel preparations to renew the attack and federal preparations to repulse it, Ojinaga has begun to assume normal conditions. Numbers of stores have reopened and refugees who sought shelter in Presidio are rapidly returning.

The federal troops are still burning the bodies of dead rebels who were killed in the charge which cost them so many lives. There is every indication that the rebels charged in their last assault to within 200 yards of the federal trenches, but were literally mowed down by a withering rifle fire from the federals.

Federal scouts report that the rebels are at San Juan, twelve miles south of Ojinaga. At that point the rebels sent sixty-seven wounded across the Rio Grande to be treated. They were placed in a schoolhouse there and are being cared for by a United States army surgeon.

The rebel army combined is said to be in such numbers as to promise a formidable front to the last vestige of Huerta's northern military government, which, after its retreat from Chihuahua, is making a stand on the boundary.

IS BOUND BY SENSE OF DUTY

O'Shaughnessy Has Gone to Vera Cruz to Meet Jhon Lind—Financial Situation is Improved.

Mexico City, Jan. 8.—"Hell will hold both Woodrow Wilson and myself before I resign," said Dictator Huerta to an American visitor who called on him at the national palace. "The time has gone past when I will give the slightest consideration to any proposition that I leave the presidency. Once I might have resigned at the bidding of almost anyone, but now, no! It is not a question of pride, ambition or pomp with me, but a question of duty—nothing else."

Mexico City, Jan. 8.—United States Charge D'Affaires Nelson O'Shaughnessy left last night for Vera Cruz in response to a dispatch from John Lind requesting that he come to see him at once. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy accompanied her husband, but their little son remains at the embassy, which is in charge of Chief Clerk Walker.

Although Mr. O'Shaughnessy declined to discuss his trip, it is reported here on good authority that he carries a message from General Huerta to Mr. Lind. On the other hand, Mr. Lind probably has a message from President Wilson with special instructions for the charge d'affaires.

According to statements made here by well informed persons, there is every reason to believe that despite Mr. Wilson's declaration that no change would be made in the American policy after the president's interview with Special Envoy Lind, that he has commissioned Mr. Lind to propose new terms to Provisional President Huerta.

The belief prevails here that a rapprochement is impending. This feeling is strengthened by the fact that in reply to Huerta's New Year's greeting to President Wilson, Mr. O'Shaughnessy, acting under instructions, said to the provisional president:

"I am instructed to transmit greetings from the president of the United States to the Mexican people, as well as his earnest good wishes for the Mexican republic."

A FINE OUTING IS IN SIGHT

Indiana Retail Lumber Dealers Going to Visit Panama.

Indianapolis, Jan. 8.—Following the convention of the Indiana Retail Lumber Dealers' association to be held here on Jan. 20 and 21, about 100 members and their women friends will make a long sight-seeing trip through the yellow pine and cypress regions of the south, and some of the delegation will spend ten days along the Panama canal. The party will stop at Memphis, Jackson, New Orleans, Houston and numerous other points to see the milling operations, and will also take a trip on the historic Teche river. The tour will end at Kansas City, where the tourists will attend the convention of the Southwestern Lumber Dealers' association. In all of the cities visited the Hoosier party will be entertained by lumbermen's organizations and companies, as well as by commercial clubs. The party going to Panama will sail from New Orleans. Many reservations for the tour have been made with Harry C. Seacore of Mooresville, secretary of the Indiana association.

Getting Ready For New Jobs.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Peter J. Krueger of South Bend and Isaac R. Strouse of Rockville will take charge of the internal revenue offices at Indianapolis and Terre Haute, respectively, on Jan. 19, according to announcement made at the treasury department. The bonds of the new collectors have been received here and approved.

Struck Down on the Street.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 8.—Victor Ort, a young man, was found in the street here with a fractured skull. From all appearances Ort had been struck over the head with some heavy instrument. Physicians declare he cannot live. He has not recovered consciousness. Officers have no clue to his assailant.

Thieves Eluded Bloodhounds.

Bedford, Ind., Jan. 8.—Thieves raided the Heitger hardware store. Bloodhounds took the trail, which led to a point on the Monon railway, where the thieves evidently escaped by climbing a passing freight train.

MORRISTOWN PLAYS HERE

Coming Tomorrow Night For Game With Locals.

The Morristown high school basketball team will be the attraction at the Graham gym tomorrow night, meeting the local high school team. The Rushville team has been practicing hard since their defeat last Saturday night by the Richmond team and believe they will beat Morristown. The team has lost games to Franklin, Lebanon and Richmond and has one victory to its credit, defeating Carthage. The team has plenty of material and Coach Smelser has hopes of developing a winner before the season is much farther advanced. The regular line-up will be used against Morristown and the game will be called at seven-thirty o'clock.

This is Persistent Report Concerning Huerta's Intentions Circulated at Mexico City.

WASHINGTON HAS NEW PLANS

Mexico City, Jan. 8.—President Huerta persistently reported to have told friends in the Catholic party here that he would soon relinquish his provisional presidency in order to take the field against the Rebels.

Officials and diplomats denied that any Mexican accompanied John Lind to Pass Christian for his recent conference with President Wilson. Credence was given to reports that the United States government now has plans under way for an entirely new arrangement with regard to Mexico as a direct result of the Lind-Wilson conference.

EXPECT NO DEVELOPMENTS

O'Shaughnessy, at Vera Cruz, Will return to Mexico City.

Vera Cruz, Jan. 8.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy arrived today to confer with John Lind, special envoy to Mexico, to obtain from him President Wilson's instructions given recently at Pass Christian, Miss. The American Charge D'Affaires was accompanied by his wife. They left their little child in Mexico City, indicating they expect to return there and that they consider the situation is likely to remain quiet.

$ 80,000,000 MELON WILL BE CUT BY UNION PACIFIC

Railroad Directors Approve Plan of Distributing B. & O. Stock Held as Extra Dividend.

New York, Jan. 8.—An $80,000,000 melon cutting was approved today by the directors of the Union Pacific railroad when they accepted plans for the distribution of the Baltimore & Ohio stock held by the road as extra dividend, with a big cash dividend.

The directors also approved the reduction of the Union Pacific dividend rate from ten to eight per cent. The distribution of the melon will be made April 1.

Lid Drops in Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 8.—The lid has been clamped down in this city. Cafe proprietors have been ordered to cease the sale of liquor, resort keepers have been warned to stop the sale of intoxicants, all disorderly houses will be kept within a district named by the police department and poolroom proprietors have been warned against permitting minors to play in their establishments.

doubts whether a buyer could be found as it will cost $500 or $600 to make the needed repairs. The cost of new valves and coils alone is $400, he says, and there are doubtless other repairs needed. The whole cost of the improvements suggested, he estimates, would not be over $100.

TO END NEGOTIATIONS FOR DISGORGING SOON

Pres. Elliott of N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. and Department of Justice to Arrive at Agreement.

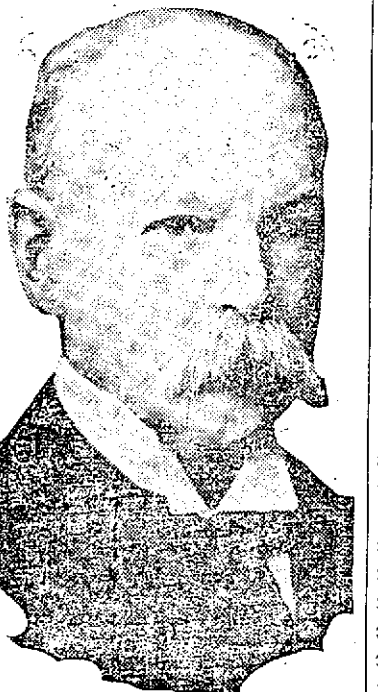

Washington, Jan. 8.—Negotiations between the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and the department of justice regarding the road's disgorging itself in accordance with the administration's anti-monopoly policy progressed at a rapid rate today. President Elliott of the road left this afternoon, but will return next Saturday or Monday to conclude the negotiations.

EUREKAS WON.

The Milroy Eurekas defeated the Westport team last night 33 to 16 in a slow and uninteresting game. The Eurekas completely outclassed their opponents and at no time did Westport have a show of winning. Next Wednesday the Eurekas will play the Boys' Club of Indianapolis and on Friday night will take on the Carthage Independent team. The Eurekas hope to win both games.

The sale of personal property of the Freeman Elston estate at the old home place, east of Milroy Wednesday was one of the largest attended sales held in Rush county for a long time. The house at the farm is one of the oldest in Rush county, one family having lived in it continuously sixty years. Mr. Elston was the father of Mrs. R. S. Davis and grandfather of Mrs. Grace Meek, who lives in the West, but who is visiting here.

life, but what of him who saves a soul? The world is in spiritual danger. We meet our brother and say not a word about his danger. We work side by side at the bench with a man who is hungry for the bread of life and say not a word, yet do you wonder that the world thinks us inconsistent when we do not lead others to know him. Every Christian ought to be an evangelist."

The Rev. Yocum pointed out the value of individual work and cited an example: that seven of the twelve apostles of Christ's were won by personal endeavor. He recalled the Bible showed that Christ talked to individuals nineteen times. He illustrated also by showing how much more valuable hand-picked fruit is.

He declared individual work was valuable because of the result which can be obtained. It was here that he pointed out that the United States could be evangelized in a month by individual work and the world in four and a half days more.

The minister said it was the church's preferred way; the most effective way, but the hardest. He said the indirect method was to persuade people to attend church so that the minister could reach them with preaching the Gospel. A far more eloquent method, he asserted, is to lead a consistent life. This, he said, is the strongest possible sermon. Men may preach eloquently, he declared, but you can preach more eloquently by your life. Talk is cheap, he said, but an exemplary life is priceless.

The direct method, the minister pointed out, is to speak personally to others. By speaking kindly, he said, and being persistent only souls are won. The Rev. Mr. Yocum cited examples. If each Christian, he said in conclusion, would feel his responsibility, there would be a revival continuously and the churches would be full.

Put an End to the Oklahoma.
Washington, Jan. 8.—The Seneca, derelict destroyer for the revenue cutter service, reports to the treasury department that she found the abandoned tank steamer Oklahoma and had sunk the derelict after firing sixteen shots into her. The Oklahoma was found floating bottom upward.
